

Name / Website	Pricing	Pros	Cons
PROJECTOR / https://www.prictrmentor.com/	Session by donate to army	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Ukrainian project</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Just for personal use (not for employees)</li> </ul>
MentorCruise / https://mentorcruise.com/	The prices are dependent on the kind of mentor and their respective rates. You can start as low as $10/month and go higher than $500 on MentorCruise.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Encourages and enables collaboration to foster the mentor-mentee relationship</li> <li>Wide range of mentors for many different areas</li> <li>Verified mentors are industry veterans from Fortune 500 companies</li> <li>Free 7-day trial with every mentor so you don't waste money while finding the right match</li> <li>No strings attached—you're not bound by any contractual requirements; cancel anytime you want</li> <li>Safe money-back guarantee in case you're not satisfied.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Since the mentors are big-time professionals at F500 companies, their rates tend to be higher and can be unaffordable to mentees just starting.</li> </ul>
Career Karma / https://careerkarma.com/ (AI)	Currently, Career Karma's revenue stream is based on an affiliate partnership structure. They charge 10% of a student's tuition (student placed into the program by them, of course) to the boot camps. So as far as users are concerned, their only expense is paying for education.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Since Career Karma offers "classroom-like" long-term courses, you can meet other people participating in the class during your job search to build lasting relationships.</li> <li>There are sub-groups and communities (like Reddit) like "Beginners" or "Ask a Coach" where you can explore and participate in discussions to absorb and contribute as much knowledge as possible.</li> <li>Career Karma has an app so you can access your mentorship activities and program health analytics anywhere, anytime. You'll also be able to join live conversations between</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>No native chatting system that encourages communication between members.</li> <li>Training courses and mentoring are scheduled like a classroom: long-term and require strict commitment, unlike occasional/weekly live meetings with mentors for consultation.</li> </ul> founders to gain insightful knowledge.

Clarity.fm / https://clarity.fm/ (For StartUps)	The prices are on a per-minute basis and entirely depend on what the mentors choose to charge. On average, a 30-minute call will accrue $50 ($1.60/minute)—but, as mentioned earlier with the Mark Cuban example, rates could go higher than $100 per minute.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• The rating system gives users insight into what kind of a mentor they can expect.</li> <li>• Mentor goals are clear-set, so the mentee knows precisely what to expect.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Mentor services are pre-set. If you have personalized requests that you can't find as a consultation service, then you're out of luck on the platform. You can try to message a mentor with your unique needs, but they may not be qualified (resulting in ineffective mentoring programs), or they could reject your request.</li> <li>• The wait time for mentor approval is three days—at which point, if they reject you, you've just wasted those three days.</li> <li>• The mentor vetting process compared to other platforms, the mentor vetting process is not very credible. A mentor must build up reviews from mentees to gain trustworthiness on the forum. This leaves mentees wondering whether or not they should trust the mentor with no reviews.</li> <li>• Enterprise mentoring isn't possible since this is a one-on-one platform.</li> </ul>
GrowthMentor / https://www.growthmentor.com/	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Individual: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>◦ 50$ - 250$ per month if buyin 3 months</li> <li>◦ 36$ - 186$ per month if buyin 1 year</li> </ul> </li> <li>• For Team - data doesn't exist as it's provided by request</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• All mentors on this platform are vetted thoroughly, interviewed, and accepted on an invite-only basis.</li> <li>• Easy, straightforward payment system</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Though the payment system is straightforward, the upfront costs of, for example, $450 yearly or $150 quarterly may be too much to bear altogether for many newbies.</li> </ul>

The Muse / https://www.themuse.com/		<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• The Muse can run multiple programs. Not only do they provide career education and private coaching, but they excel in program management by coupling those resources with job and company research tools to ensure the mentoring process is streamlined.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Muse's content is relatively general. As a result, software engineers, product managers and designers, and data scientists may not find the content actionable.</li> <li>• Their content is geared for people already working and looking for career advancement—rather than newbies dipping their toes in the water. The content may therefore be harder-to-understand and irrelevant for new hires.</li> <li>• Many programs are pretty expensive for the average joe</li> </ul>
MentorPass / https://www.mentorpass.co/	This mentorship platform subscription is quite different from many others; it is divided into solopreneur, startup, and scale. Also, this mentor platform doesn't require you to pay by the hour or minute. Instead, your subscription gives you several credits that you can use to book calls with mentors on the platform. The higher your credits on this coaching and mentoring platform, the more sessions you have with higher-tiered mentors. Below is a breakdown of these mentoring platforms: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Solopreneur: $300/ month (30 credits)</li> <li>• Startup: $600/month (60 credits)</li> <li>• Scale: $1,200/month (120 credits)</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• It combines coaching and access to an expert network</li> <li>• It minimizes the time and cost of decamping to an incubator</li> <li>• Mentors on this online mentoring platform are thoroughly vetted and interviewed to only provide you with the best</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• MentorPass' monthly subscription might be too high to keep up with for most founders</li> </ul>
MicroMentor / https://www.micromentor.org/	$0. MicroMentor is a non-profit, so the mentoring services are	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Free-to-use non-profit</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Because the mentoring</li> </ul>

	free, thanks to government and private funding and donations.	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• An international platform that helps underserved businesses around the world</li> <li>• Entrepreneurs and mentors can reach out to you instead of you finding them</li> </ul>	services are a non-profit reliant on donations and funding, growth resources may not be as extensive as some of the paid mentoring platforms on this list. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Volunteer mentors are dispersed, so you can't have as much time with them as you like.</li> </ul>
Together / https://www.togetherplatform.com/	Free: $0/month Professional: $10,000+/year Enterprise: $20,000+/year	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Together offers an intuitive interface that's easy to use and caters to different company sizes.</li> <li>• There's exceptional customer support, and you can hold Q&amp;A sessions with program administrators before rolling out programs.</li> <li>• It provides companies with reports that allow them to have a bird-eye view of their mentoring programs. Companies can measure mentoring activities to determine who meets the goal and who isn't.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Although the process of pairing mentees with mentors is automated, organizations have to manually review the rules of the pairing process.</li> </ul>